Shooting Affray at Gallup. There were rumors in circulation this morning of a fatal shooting affray at Gallup between Gregg Page, a saloon keeper, and Justice of the Peace Maloney, but on investigation it was found that Page was shot at but the bullet went wide of its mark. A telegram was first received by Lowenthal & Meyers, in which they were informed of the shooting; following this came another te egram stating that he was shot at but not hit. Dr. Robinson, who is here on the way for his family in Texas, received a telegram from Justice Maloney, requesting him to return home and bring with him an attorney. The doctor will return to Gallup on this evening's train. The trouble is all about title to some land, and it seems that Page took advantage of the absence of Dr. Robinson and commenced tearing down the latter's house, which
